

Company:

Active Risk provides the world's first Enterprise Risk Management software that drives business performance by enhancing visibility, accountability and confidence.

Solution:

Active Risk Manager (ARM) is the first and only truly comprehensive Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) software package that can collect all risk data from anywhere in an organization. ARM is used in over 170 of the globe's most respected and demanding organizations and on some of the world's most complex and high profile projects.

ARM collects risk data at the point at which it is encountered – whether on a project, in operations, or company-wide – and consolidates it into one place, in real time. ARM provides the system of record for all risk-related information within an organization and gives executives, risk professionals and project professionals a truly comprehensive view of their organization's risk, issues and opportunities, enabling them to make better-informed decisions to drive innovation and growth.

Founded: Established in 1987 as Strategic Thought Group (STG); changed name to Active Risk in 2011.

Locations: Global Headquarters in Maidenhead, UK; US Headquarters in Herndon, VA; offices in Sydney and Melbourne, Australia.

Customers: Include Rio Tinto, US Air Force, Nestle, Lockheed Martin, Bechtel and many more global Fortune 500 companies.
